SALENTO, APULIA

A contemporary retreat surrounded by fig orchards, where the heritage of the traditional masseria meets refined hospitality.

Surrounded by one of Europe's largest fig orchards, Masseria Furnirussi is an authentic expression of Salento's landscape and heritage. A contemporary interpretation of the traditional Apulian Masseria, where white stone architecture, open courtyards and private gardens blend seamlessly with the countryside. An intimate retreat where nature, design and hospitality come together, offering a refined and immersive experience of Salento.

THE SOUL OF SALENTO

A region where the rhythm of nature, centuries-old agricultural traditions and the heritage of the masseria have shaped both the landscape and the culture of the countryside.

A land of light, ancient olive groves and dry stone walls shaped by centuries of agricultural heritage.

In Salento, life moves to the rhythm of nature and the changing seasons.

The fig tree, a symbol of abundance throughout the Mediterranean, flourishes under the southern sun and is deeply rooted in the landscape and local traditions.

At the heart of this rural culture stands the masseria: historic fortified farmhouses that once formed the centre of life in the countryside.

ROOMS & SUITES

Contemporary retreats inspired by the nature and heritage of the Apulian countryside.

The rooms and suites at Masseria Furnirussi are conceived as private retreats immersed in nature. Bright spaces, natural materials and warm tones reinterpret the aesthetic of traditional Apulian farmhouses through a contemporary design language.

Many accommodations feature private gardens, terraces or private pools, offering guests an intimate and relaxing stay in perfect harmony with the surrounding landscape.
